

Not all educational and research institutions producing scientific literature currently have an institutional repository and the size of some of them do not justify the creation of an institutional repository itself. Thus, RCAAP project has developed a repository that can accommodate the scientific production of small institutions, groups or individuals, integrating them into the infrastructure of the project, especially in research through the portal RCAAP and B-On.

The repository is available at:

<http://comum.rcaap.pt>