

The centralized service on repository usage statistics is a centralized system allowing to aggregate statistic data on repository use informing the repository managers about their repository evolution.

This service is available to the repositories included in the RCAAP Project compliant with the technical requirements. The RCAAP Project provides this monitoring service enabling to compare different resources and available rankings about repositories content.

The service is available at <http://sceur.rcaap.pt> .